

This is a VERY bad idea. I don't think the general public is informed enough about current security problems on the internet, let alone a new conduit that literally broadcasts the signal into the ionosphere. There is NO WAY to guarantee secure communications this way.